SUBJECT: TERMS OF REFERENCE: Communist Chinese Ground
Capabilities Against India

THE PROBLEM

To assess the offensive capabilities of Communist China's ground forces against India.

I. QUESTIONS BEARING ON THE PROBLEM

A. What general political/military/economic considerations affect directly the Chinese Communists' military capabilities against India -- e.g., the need to commit large forces in the Taiwan Strait area, the need to maintain internal security or the degree of support (or lack of it) that the Chinese can expect from the USSR?

B. Exclusive of logistic considerations, how does geography affect Chinese capabilities with respect to weapons, personnel and tactics in the area?

C. Examine the capacity of the Chinese Communists to support ground campaigns against India, considering separately the following objectives:

1. Active border guard activities;
2. Limited probing action (similar to the action of last October and November);
3. Invasion to secure major portion of Indian territory.

(It is suggested that Chinese Communist logistic problems be discussed in three phases: (1) The Chinese interior to the Tibetan base areas, (2) from the base areas to the frontier, and (3) the area on the Indian side of the frontier.)

II. GRAPHICS

What maps, other graphics and tabular materials will be required?

III. POST-MORTEM COLLECTION REQUIREMENTS

What significant gaps in intelligence information have become apparent in the preparation of this contribution?
